East Bay Regional Park District and Samavesha present: Art in Nature Festival A Multidisciplinary Arts Event

Located at the Stream Trail of Redwood Regional Park, Oakland, California. Sponsored by the Regional Parks Foundation and Kaiser Permanente.

Sunday September 20, 2015 11am to 5pm, FREE

Art in Nature is a full day interdisciplinary, interactive, sitespecific, multi-sensory, inter-cultural, and inter-generational immersion into art, nature, and the nature of art. It takes place annually along the paved Stream Trail of Oakland's Redwood Regional Park. The event is free, unplugged, and off the grid.

Art in Nature is an immersion into art and nature sparking the spontaneous artistic co-creation of thousands of festival participants and 200+ professional artists tucked among meadows, redwoods and oaks. Admission and transportation are free. www.artinnaturefestival.org

Stroll along the mile-long Stream Trail, experience art in nature, and delve into the nature of art throughout 12 theme areas featuring music, dance, sculpture, painting, martial arts, poetry, body painting, circus arts, theater, visual arts, storytelling, arts & crafts, kids activities and more.

The Festival:

The East Bay Regional Park District and Samavesha present Art in Nature at Redwood Regional Park, Oakland. This unique multidisciplinary arts festival, directed by renowned Italian composer and Artistic Director Laura Inserra, takes artists and the community on a journey into the nature of art. The festival is guided by the principle that all art forms originate from a universal human characteristic: creativity. Art in Nature conveys this universality by revealing the creative process in a variety of art forms, and also by giving festivalgoers access to their own creativity through a multitude of participatory activities and performances.

The organization:

Samavesha is a multidisciplinary arts organization that brings performing art events to the community, explores the intersection of traditional art forms with contemporary artistic languages, and creates awareness of the vital importance of creativity and art in human lives as a source of a healthy living. Samavesha engages local and international artists in collaborative and experientially-based events showcasing all forms of artistic expression. Samavesha produces accessible, interactive, educational, and fully immersive artistic experiences for the public. In addition to the Art in Nature Festival, Samavesha produces the annual Cave Concerts in the Marin Headlands, Create-With-Nature Earth Day Celebration at Stinson Beach, the Rose Labyrinth Series, and a Community Program located at schools, camps, health care facilities, community centers and parks.

The founder and director:

A native of Sicily, Laura Inserra has been involved for many years in the artistic direction of multidisciplinary performances in Europe and in the US. Her work in Italy is well- known, including integral participation in the composition of numerous movie scores and the artistic direction of innovative live productions. "Laura is a visionary and full of passion. She can make anything happen... and with love." - Michelle Fletcher. Artistic Director of Here Now Dance Company.

On Redwood Road, just a few miles over the ridge from downtown Oakland, is a hidden redwood forest whose peaceful groves give little evidence of its bustling past. In the mid-1800s, what is now Redwood Regional Park was the scene of extensive logging to supply building materials for the San Francisco Bay Area. The logging era has long since passed, and a stately forest of 150-foot coast redwoods has replaced those cut down. Wildlife within the park includes rare species such as the golden eagle and Alameda striped racer snake. Deer, raccoons, rabbits, and squirrels are often seen. The festival extends along the 1 mile stretch of the Stream Trail.
